Local team. Global impact.

The Center on Human Trafficking Research & Outreach (CenHTRO) works to end human trafficking through a comprehensive approach.

We tackle the problem by generating strong data, prioritizing partnerships, and empowering people toward collective actions in their communities.

Our local team creates global impact, all from our base at the University of Georgia School of Work. Working alongside governments, institutions, and nonprofits, our strategies help victims escape exploitation, bring traffickers to justice, and stop the crime at its roots.

Evidence-based.

Trauma-informed.

Survivor-centered.

Together we can end human trafficking.
